After serving four years in the Army, Samir discovered the transformative power of art, and has been a tireless advocate for universal access to the arts. Through his DTLA-based small business, he has worked with multiple cultural organizations to expand access and broaden inclusion.

In 2021, Samir was elected to the Downtown Los Angeles Neighborhood Council, where he continues to advocate for safer streets and public transportation, historic preservation, sensible city planning, and homeless resources.

Samir lives in Downtown LA when many have given up on the inner city and empty storefronts. He has the courage of a veteran and survivor of childhood trauma where he faced unstable housing and poverty. We've tried the same political insider thing in Los Angeles again and again with the same disappointing results. It's time for SOMETHING DIFFERENT. Samir for LA.

It's Time for Something Different

Safer streets and public transportation

Add homeless shelters and treatment of mental illness & addiction

Increase jobs through the support of local small businesses

Reform the city charter for more direct representation

Higher wages for working families
